

Family Record Sources

The common sources for my family tree dates include our own and others' contemporary copies of the manuscript entries in two 17th Century family bibles. See Durban & Mildura Bibles.

In addition we have obtained details (and in most cases photocopies) of all known Perrott pre 1838 wills and church record entries for many parishes including Llanelli, Swansea, Laugharne, Llanybri, St Issells (Carms). (The Perrott Society member database provides a comprehensive record of P Wills, BMDs and census information assembled over 30 years.)

In addition, we have inherited several family trees (copies of which are below.) References to these sources are made throughout the text where appropriate.

A printed family tree diagram showing a lineage from the 17th century to the 19th century. The diagram is organized into columns representing generations. The names are printed in a serif font, and there are dates associated with the entries. The diagram shows a central figure, James Perrott, with lines branching out to his children and their descendants. The paper is aged and shows some staining.A printed family tree diagram showing a lineage from the 17th century to the 19th century. The diagram is organized into columns representing generations. The names are printed in a serif font, and there are dates associated with the entries. The diagram shows a central figure, James Perrott, with lines branching out to his children and their descendants. The paper is aged and shows some staining.